FREEWAY UPDATES

Commuters who find themselves cursing the disruptions and jams caused by the Gauteng Freeway Improvement Project (GFIP) should take a trip to Pretoria. A small section of the upgraded N1 has been opened near Atterbury Road, offering motorists up to 10 lanes. Once the first phase of the project is completed, the GFIP will use an open road tolling system to maintain the roads. Open-road tolling means that transactions will be conducted electronically – motorists will be required to register as users to obtain the transponders that are fitted into their cars. The transponders detect movement whenever the driver passes under gantries situated approximately every 10km along the freeway network. Details: www.sanral.co.za
